Helping Your Student Start College Strong

Beginning college is an exciting step, but it can also feel a little stressful. As a parent/family member, you play an important role in helping your student adjust. Here are a few simple ways to support them as they begin their journey at Kellogg Community College:

- Encourage independence. Let your student take the lead with class schedules, talking to instructors, and finding help on campus. This builds confidence.
- Stay in touch. A quick text or phone call shows you care. Let your student decide how much they want to share.
- Promote balance. Remind them to manage their time between classes, work, and friends. Encourage good habits like sleep, healthy meals, and exercise.
- Know the resources. Point them toward campus services like Student Life, tutoring, advising, or financial aid if they need support.

- Celebrate wins. Cheer them on for big and small successes—it helps them feel motivated and proud.

With your encouragement, your student will feel more confident and supported as they begin their college adventure.
